WHAT YOUR NUMBERS SAY

A big room that already trusts your method

Your reels are not generic tips. You told us they come straight from the framework you teach paying clients, picked from the problems that come up most.

Your voice-and-delivery reels are the ones that break out. Your day-to-day technique reels, such as "Do this when you don't know what to say", typically draw 500+ likes and 10 to 15 comments: a steady, practical audience applying what you show them.

Already in place

Paid coaching programmes, and a consultation booking page at sarpongandrews.com/consultation. Your bio already says the promise: make your communication match the quality of your thinking and expertise.

YOUR THREE CONTENT PILLARS

What you teach, in your own captions

Voice & delivery

"How to speak in cadence", "Speak with rhythm", "Train your T sound", "Shape your sounds from the right place".

Thinking on your feet

"Do this when you don't know what to say", "Do this to get your thoughts out every time", "When You Know What To Say But Can't Say It".

Presence & authority

"Here's how to sound authoritative when you speak", "Let Your Communication Reflect Your Expertise".

WHERE THE GAP SITS

From a 60-second reel to a coaching programme is a big step

"It is a repeatable framework I train people in. Most of the things I cover in my reels are usually things I teach in my coaching programs. I pick those that are common among my clients and I share the solution to everyone so they can apply immediately."

OBSERVED

111,000 followers, reels built from your coaching framework, paid programmes and a booking page already live.

INFERRED, NOT CONFIRMED

Some followers apply the reels but never book, because coaching is a bigger step than they are ready for. You haven't said whether programmes are full, so this audit doesn't assume it.

The verdict: a short paid version of one framework sits between the free reel and the programme. It serves the people who aren't ready for coaching, and it introduces your coaching to the ones who are.

WHERE THE NUMBER COMES FROM

One assumption, shown so you can check it

This is a conservative estimate, not a promise. Every figure below is either public data or a stated assumption.

Follower base ≈ 111,000

Public data: 110,970, rounded

Share who buy in the first launch × 0.25%

Assumption: 0.25% of followers, one in every 400

Buyers ≈ 275

$111,000 \times 0.25\% = 277.5$, rounded down

Price of the self-paced framework × $47

Assumption: a short course, priced for followers not ready for coaching

275 buyers × $47 $12,925

Exact product of the line above

Estimate: one launch of one framework, before any buyer moves on to coaching

≈ $12,900

How to read it

- It scales in a straight line. Every 100 buyers at $47 is $4,700. If you want to stress-test it, change the 0.25% and the rest follows.
- It counts one product, once. No second framework, no relaunch, and nothing from coaching bookings is added in.
- It is checkable before you build. The “FRAMEWORK” comment test on page 9 tells you whether interest is anywhere near 275 people.

Figures are in US dollars, as in the audit. Platform and payment fees are not deducted.

THE PRODUCT LADDER

One new rung, between the reel and the coaching

Everything here already exists except the yellow rung. That is the only thing to build.

PRODUCT	WHAT IT IS	FOR WHOM	PRICE	REVENUE (ESTIMATE)
Option 1 When You Don't Know What to Say	Short self-paced programme on one framework	Followers using the reels who aren't ready for one-to-one coaching	$47	≈ $12,900 275 buyers
Option 2 The path into coaching	Final lesson invites buyers to book a consultation	Buyers who want personal feedback	Existing	Not estimated tracked, not assumed

Option 2 has no figure on purpose: the audit doesn't know your coaching fees or how many buyers will book. The launch plan measures it instead, and that measurement decides whether a second framework is worth packaging.

OFFER DETAIL · OPTION 1 · THE MAIN IDEA

“When You Don’t Know What to Say”

$47

SELF-PACED

ONE FRAMEWORK

The full method behind your reel “Do this when you don’t know what to say”, taught properly instead of in 60 seconds.

The promise

When someone asks you a question and your mind goes blank, you know exactly what to say next, because you have a repeatable framework rather than relying on talent.

What is inside

01

The steps

The one framework you teach in your programmes, broken down step by step.

02

Worked examples

Drawn from the client situations you see most often.

03

Practice prompts

To apply it in real conversations, not just watch it.

Why it fits you

You said the reels come from problems “common among my clients”. This packages that same solution in full. Your thinking-on-your-feet reels (“Do this to get your thoughts out every time”, “When You Know What To Say But Can’t Say It”) already point at it.

First step to build it

Run the story question box first (page 8). Then write the lesson list around the one framework and the client situations you already see most, shaped by what followers say they get stuck on.

OFFER DETAIL · OPTION 2

The path into coaching

USES YOUR EXISTING PAGE

NO NEW BUILD

The course is a first step towards the coaching you already run, not a replacement for it.

What it is

The last lesson of the course invites buyers who want personal feedback to book a consultation through sarpongandrews.com/consultation.

The promise

Buyers who have learned the framework on their own and want it applied to their own situation have a clear, natural next step: you.

What is inside

- A closing lesson on where self-study stops and personal feedback starts.
- A direct invitation and link to your consultation page.
- A simple way to see which bookings came from course buyers.

First step to build it

Add one source question to your consultation booking ("Did you take the course?") before launch, so you can count course buyers who book. That count is what tells you whether a second framework is worth packaging.

WITHOUT THE COURSE

Reel → consultation. One big jump.

WITH THE COURSE

Reel → $47 framework → consultation.

LAUNCH PLAN

Four steps, in this order

Ask before you build, and measure what happens after. Nothing here needs a new platform or a bigger following.

1Ask first

Post a story question box: "Where do you get stuck most when you don't know what to say?" Their answers shape the lessons, in their own words. Alongside it, post the test carousel on the next page.

2Build around the one framework

Write the programme around the framework behind your reel, using the client situations you already see most often, matched against what the question box surfaced.

3Open a waitlist, then launch to it

Everyone who commented "FRAMEWORK" gets the waitlist link. Launch to that list with a clear date and a real close, so there is a reason to decide.

4Track who books

Count how many buyers go on to book a consultation. That number tells you whether a second framework (voice and delivery, say, where your biggest reels sit) is worth packaging next.

What to post

Keep your normal technique reels going throughout. Each one on thinking-on-your-feet is a natural place to say "the full framework is coming, join the waitlist".

THE FIRST POST · TEST BEFORE YOU BUILD

Post this before you build anything

A carousel, or the same lines as caption overlays on a reel in your usual style. The number of "FRAMEWORK" comments is the demand test.

SLIDE 1

You know the feeling:
someone asks you a question and your mind goes blank.

SLIDE 2

In my coaching programmes
I teach one framework for exactly this moment.

SLIDE 3

I'm thinking of putting the full framework into a short course you can do at your own pace.

SLIDE 4

Comment "FRAMEWORK" if you'd want it.

Caption

When you know what to say but can't say it, it isn't talent you're missing. It's a framework. I teach one in my coaching programmes for exactly this moment, and I'm thinking of turning it into a short course. Comment "FRAMEWORK" if you'd want it.
#publicspeaking #communication #confidence #voice

How to read it: the estimate needs about 275 buyers. Every person who comments is a name for the waitlist; compare the count with that figure before you decide how much to build.

WHAT TO DO NEXT

Make the course match the quality of your coaching.

You already have the framework, the audience and the coaching to send people on to. The next move is small.

1This week

Post the question box and the "FRAMEWORK" carousel.

2When the comments are in

Count them against the 275-buyer estimate, then outline the lessons.

3After launch

Track how many buyers book a consultation before packaging a second framework.

Reply to this DM and I'll walk you through the numbers and what to build first.
